Teaching Proposal

Mimi's Spartacus
A 19" Fabric Sculpture

Three-Day Class
Advanced Skill Level
Class size limited to twelve

Course description:

Pattern, sewing instructions, fabric, and dream-seamer tool will be sent to students 4 to 6 weeks prior to class. Entire doll skin and head must be stitched prior to class. This class is all about learning new techniques, not completing a doll. Complete instructions to be handed out in class will help students to complete the figure at home. Some advanced students and those who work after class may finish the piece.

Starting with the pre-stitched torso, students will learn to stuff firmly and smoothly. They will learn how to needle-model and stitch masculine abs and pects. Other techniques learned in this class include; stuffing a muslin "skull" with an overlay of cotton-spandex onto which they will learn to model and stitch dimensional eyes, a masculine nose, jaw, chin and an open mouth. Students will construct a wire armature that extends from the head through the torso and out the standing leg, which is designed, to fit into a wooden base. Instructions are included for making the base. Students will learn how to create masculine hands and insert them into the forearms. Students will also learn to balance the figure to catch the dancer in mid-leap. Time permitting there will be demonstrations for draping the figure to create patterns for costuming, for making a custom skin wig, and how to weft fiber and apply it to the doll's head for other types of wiggling..

Note: If this proposal is for a multi-class symposium teacher is willing to do a two to three hour demo for draping a stuffed figure to create patterns for clothing and/or wigs at an event of mini classes and demonstrations at no additional charge.

Class Outline:

- * Day One: Students will make a wrapped wire armature; insert it into the sewn torso and stuff firmly and smoothly around the armature. The torso will be closed and needle modeled to form the musculature of a male dancer. Legs will be trimmed, treated, turned and stuffed.
- * Day Two: Will be entirely devoted the head and face. We will stuff the sewn skull and affix the cotton-spandex overlay. The nose, eye-sockets, dimensional eyes, jaw and an open mouth will be modeled and stitched. Ears will be stuffed, needle modeled, stitched and affixed to the head. Students are encouraged to pre-stitch two or more heads. A more advanced student will be able to work a second or even third head while teacher is working with less advanced students.

- * Day Three: The head will be pinned and stitched to the torso. Hands will be constructed of wire and floral tape and inserted into sewn, turned "gloves". Arms will be stuffed, assembled and attached to the torso. Legs will be pinned in place using a master drawing as a pattern for accuracy and balance. Time permitting costuming and wiggling as well as coloring face and hands and painting boots will be discussed and demonstrated. Unless the entire class is very advanced this is not likely to happen; although teacher will try to discuss the subject and demo as much as possible while students are working.

This is an intense class due to the amount of technique to learn but we do have a lot of fun as well.
